

Low Intelligentum with Regard to Corona

Excerpt from the 787th contact of Sunday, 28th of November 2021

Ptaah ... I am concerned about the well-being of the human beings of Earth and, moreover, I cannot logically follow such low intelligentum on the part of national leaders who act so inconsiderately that through their fault the female and male charges of the nation suffer harm to their health or lose their lives. It is incomprehensible to me that the peoples are of such low intelligentum – thus are non-thinking – that they are of even lower intelligentum than the national leaders, all of whom fly different flags.

Bermunda I cannot do that either, for so much low intelligentum, that is to say, non-thinking, among the peoples, is incomprehensible to me. Rationality and intellect do require that the best be done to ensure the well-being of health and of life.

Billy That is a pious wish on your part, because the majority of the earthlings do not use intellect and rationality in order to master everyday life, but rather their belief, and that unfortunately depends fundamentally on the religious; namely on the delusion that 'God will fix it, therefore he will do the right thing'. This, however, automatically translates into everyday life, where belief is doing its job in a different form, namely the belief in that sense that one simply believes everything that others say or allege, and in the case of the rampantly spreading corona disease it is precisely the lies that are being spread by those in government. The reasons for this are probably manifold and connected with profit, for you only need to know those earthlings who see the good of life in money, because for them nothing compares to money that they can scrape together and believe that therewith heaven would be open and the 'good Lord' would be kind-hearted to them.

Bermunda What you are saying about the low intelligentum of all those in government and that part of the people who are responsible for those people attaining state might, even though they are not capable of their office due to their equally damage-bringing low intelligentum, and they ...

Billy Hold on, please, but I think that in future we should explicitly state what low intelligentum really is, in order to finally get rid of the false assumption and the erroneous 'understanding' that 'low intelligentum' is a state of 'intelligence' and thus of the consciousness. Neither is true, because firstly, 'intelligence' is a form of remembering and has nothing to do with intelligentum, and thus nothing to do with knowledge, with being clever, and thus nothing to do with consciousness. This is to be explained explicitly because the 'well-disposed science of psychology' claims that 'stupidity' is a state of weakness of the intelligence and/or inability of the intelligence. Yet 'scientists' have not understood since time immemorial that 'intelligence' has nothing to do with the so-called normality of the consciousness and the educatedness and so forth, of the human being, but that 'intelligence' embodies nothing but a 'form of remembering' that can be resorted to in terms of remembrance, if the human being is capable of doing so. This is the case, while the so-called 'intelligentum' is the epitome of that which in every case includes the high value of the knowledge and of the benefit of logic, and thus of the intellect and of rationality, which altogether results as the outcome of conscious and logical thinking. This also expresses that logical thinking alone forms that factor which decides about the stupidity [FIGU now uses 'low intelligentum' in place of 'stupidity'] or high-mindedness, cleverness, logic, the intellect and the rationality of the human being, because 'low intelligentum' is nothing other than 'non-thinking', in other words, that which results from non-thinking, lax thinking or wrong thinking as a false result, wrong decision and wrong acting, which comes about because through belief there is no thinking at all, or through mental laziness there is only superficial thought which is lax and not correct. This, however, corresponds to a 'dull' or a 'dumb' thinking; consequently 'stupidity/low intelligentum' means nothing other than just an inadequate thinking, or a 'wrong thinking', or a 'non-thinking' in general.

Thus, I mean low intelligentum in the sense that those in government are once again foolishly and irresponsibly fiddling around with stubbornly continuing with their inconsiderate mode of action with regard to the fact that they are, as usual, doing exactly the wrong thing. In this form – instead of cutting off all travel activity in a flash – they do exactly the opposite, wherewith they allow the new rampantly spreading corona disease mutation that has broken out in South Africa to fly to Europe via human beings infected with it and thus spread everything there.

Bermunda The national leaders who are incapable of true thinking and thus of logic, of intellect and of rationality, are the culprits of the whole thing, including the irrational ones of the peoples who have fallen or are falling prey to these incapable ones. The populations are believably won over to their side by the persuasive powers of the mighty ones of the states, who are incapable of their office, and they equally allow them to think, decide and act illogically and not even in a half-worthy form, thus intellect and rationality are not brought to fruition. It is both the mightful ones of state being irrational, of low intelligentum and completely devoid of logic, and their hangers-on from the peoples, who make any evolution of the consciousness of the human being of Earth impossible in every respect, but only promote a general development in a technical and otherwise material form. The result of this is that, in terms of consciousness, the Earth human being continues to remain on the level of the primitive and acts out the impulsions of the abnormal, which results in acts of Gewalt ("There is no English word that conveys the true meaning of the German word 'Gewalt'. 'Gewalt' is the brutal execution of elemental might and force, but it is far above all might and all force. 'Gewalt' exists in different and relative forms, one example being a 'gewalttätige Gesinnung' – expression from the character, personality, thoughts, feelings and emotions that shows the inclination to act with Gewalt. When human beings possess or carry out acts of Gewalt and it is not based in logic, then this usually involves violence, brutality, degradation and is terribly destructive." (Meier, BEA 2010, The Goblet of Truth, page XIII, footnote) and contempt for life, as

Billy ... murder and manslaughter, in hatred, war, physical and psychical Gewalt, felony, pathological craving for drugs, calumny, lying and deception, and so forth, which began uncontrolled already decades ago, namely at the beginning of the 1970s, which since then has gotten completely out of control and is increasing more and more. As I know, over time the whole thing is going to result in anarchy, in which case, on the one hand, the overpopulation will bring the military to the scene in an uncontrollable form through its upcoming Ausartung (Ausartung (pl. Ausartungen) = a very badly getting out of control of the good human nature), because the conventional law enforcement powers will no longer be able to control the situation and, moreover, will increasingly resort to acts of Gewalt. The Ausartungen and murders will also become more and more precarious among the people, and indeed in the so-called civilised countries just as much as they already claim hundreds and thousands of human lives every year in the underdeveloped countries by means of acts of Gewalt, murders and mass murders. Moreover, the murderers will be increasingly younger, therefore children and young people – in addition to the murders carried out by adults – will be the ones who eliminate human lives. The earthlings do not want to recognise the catastrophe that will result also in many other respects, because they simply live without a thought for tomorrow, namely as people of low intelligentum who are becoming increasingly incapable of thinking. Unfortunately, the future of Earth humanity looks bleak, and nothing can be done about it because no one wants to listen to those who will talk about and reveal that which will happen in the future. Only the small group of those who listen will behave in such a form that they will only be marginally affected by the whole approaching terribleness, so that in a few human beings of Earth the thinking and thus the logic, the intellect and the rationality will gain the upper hand, while the majority of humanity is a dead loss and the misery will gain ground.

Ptaah You should not reveal too much of that which is to come. But I will not interrupt you two, Bermunda and you, for you shall say what you have to say. As for me, I will hold back, because I still cannot logically follow the careless decision-making and likewise careless ordering and decreeing of wrong behaviour passed on to the peoples.

Bermunda Thank you. – Yes, solely those responsible ones, the mighty ones of state and that large part of the peoples are responsible for the whole of the terribleness of the corona pandemic now existing and still to come. The mighty ones of all the nations of the world, who in every respect are incapable of state leadership, have not decided anything right since 2019 with regard to keeping the rampantly spreading corona disease at bay. Indeed, they initially issued a decree requiring the wearing of respiratory protection masks and keeping a distance from one human being to another human being, and enacted a so-called general lockdown. This meant that, in addition to public entertainment venues of all kinds, all sporting events and so forth were prevented and shut down, which, however, somewhat calmed down the developing pandemic nonetheless. However, this measure lasted only for a very short period of time, hence shortly afterwards the whole thing ended in indifference on the part of the mighty ones of state and the peoples. The consequence of this was that the rampantly spreading corona disease, which first manifested itself as an epidemic, was able to develop into a pandemic instead of being kept at bay and being fought against properly.

When the mighty ones of the states officially became aware of the outbreak of the rampantly spreading corona disease – we Plejaren generally stick to this term – they, in their low intelligentum, that is to say, in their incapability of real and logical, comprehending and rational thinking, carelessly implemented the wrong thing. That was namely the fact that the rampantly spreading corona disease, however, declined in the course of the months, whereas the mighty ones of state, due to foolishness, did not realise – as you said at that time – that the whole thing was the 'calm before the storm', 'and the big thrust will only come then', when the mighty ones of state will do the dumbest they could ever do in their incapability. You said back then that already in a short time they will fall into such indifference that they will end the lockdown among the peoples and declare the generally valid safety wearing of respiratory protection masks as well as the keeping of distance from one human being to another human being as officially ended, which will claim many thousands of human lives. Part of the vaccines that will be used would be completely immature and, in many cases, would even bring forth deadly effects, while others would be halfway good, which according to our findings has actually turned out to be the case and has caused many deaths to date. However, you explained back then that, according to Sfath's research at that time, certain vaccines were effective in one human being or another, depending on their health constitution, and that they were in fact largely protected from infection.

He taught you that one or the other human being would be protected from the rampantly spreading corona disease, although they themselves were infected and were able to spread the disease, but nevertheless did not show any symptoms of the rampantly spreading disease themselves. This was something that was also completely new to us, but which led to research being started and carried out from our end, which in the course of time confirmed your information and thus also the research results of Sfath, which he obtained at that time, that everything corresponds to that which is largely right, namely to that which is the case today, which, however, is completely unknown to the earthly scientists, because up to now they have not harboured any thoughts in this direction whatsoever and, moreover, have not taken it into consideration, because in their narrow-mindedness this fact appears to them to be completely absurd.

Since the mighty ones of the state have consciencelessly and with unparalleled low intelligentum prescribed unsuitable measures to the peoples from the beginning – because the whole thing was not correct enough – the pandemic could not be kept at bay. Then, when the number of illnesses, that is to say the number of infections with the rampantly spreading disease, decreased as the rampantly spreading corona disease declined, the obligatory wearing of respiratory protection masks was almost automatically abolished, as was the general need of keeping a distance between human beings. As a further consequence of the abolition it inevitably ensued that, from then on, all public and large events and the opening of restaurants as well as hotels and so forth, were again permitted. This led to thousands of fanatical participants at events, through which thousands of Earth's human beings were infected with the frequently mutating corona virus in a short time. The inevitable consequence of all this was, of course, that also the reduced work performance of the employees, which was partly transformed into home office by the state leadership, as well as the blocked economy of all kinds was loosened and released again, which again quickly promoted the infection of innumerable human beings, consequently the rampantly spreading corona disease could strike once more and claim thousands of infections and deaths.

The mighty ones of the states, who inherently and completely failed and in every respect ordered and decreed the wrong thing for the peoples to fight against the rampantly spreading corona disease – which none of the incapable mighty ones of any state who are of low intelligentum are excluded from – have since made an effort to deflect their guilt of complete failure onto that part of the peoples, who up to now have steadfastly refused to be vaccinated with life-endangering and, moreover, thus inadequate chemical vaccines, some of which even consisted of distilled water and saline solutions – which, uncontrollably, is still happening now and then, as we can ascertain. Furthermore, the incapable mighty ones of state are ordering and concocting measures, without thinking of anything real, which altogether render the personal rights of the individual human being null and void. This is done by implementing a mandatory vaccination imposed by the state, which is supposed to testify to a general 'solidarity' of the peoples, which, however, is truthfully not voluntary but is to be forced on them. However, the fact that this divides the peoples among themselves into supporters and opponents of compulsory vaccination, so to speak, is something that the mighty ones of the state are not able to recognise in their low intelligentum, that is to say, in their inability to think. They are also unable to do so in view of the fact that all of their actions in this regard are completely irresponsible and unhuman, drenched with state-mightful arrogance in a bad way and, moreover, revealing what depraved characters they, the mighty ones of state, have – in which case this concerns the majority of those who are really fallible and guilty of the whole of the disaster, from which, however, the few who are innocent in the matter must be excluded.

They all allow all the wrong behaviour you mentioned to come about in the first place. This is also true for the present, and indeed by not immediately ordering and doing the right thing, namely – and this may sound unhuman and malicious, which would, however, be the only right thing – that all transport of human beings be stopped immediately and without lenience and without delay. Under really no circumstances may human transports from contaminated countries to other countries take place any more, neither by aeroplanes, railways, ships or road traffic. This must be equally valid for human transport involving human beings affected by the rampantly spreading disease in their own country.

With regard to persons stricken with the rampantly spreading disease and from a clinic overcrowded with such sick patients, under no circumstances must transport of rampantly spreading disease-stricken persons take place from one place and country to another, or from one city to another. This should also have applied to South Africa, which you privately talked about in the month of July, that this was about to happen, at which time the mutation of the rampantly spreading disease had already started to develop in Nigeria, which, however, could not be detected at that time. But what is going on with the transportation of persons infected with the rampantly spreading corona disease from South Africa to Europe, should not be done, but it, on the contrary, is being done irresponsibly and is being advocated by the national leaders, as we can observe. Due to this kind of inconsiderate acting, on the one hand, the rampantly spreading corona disease – as well as any other contagious disease – is all the more being spread as, on the other hand, other similar actions also contribute to the disaster of the further spreading of the rampantly spreading disease. This namely is done by transporting patients stricken by the rampantly spreading disease from clinics overcrowded with such, away from the towns, cities and countries in question, namely to other clinics in other towns, cities and countries, where the clinics are being overcrowded and overburdened with patients suffering from the rampantly spreading disease or sick people as well, hence these also fall into a state of emergency. Instead, however, the national leaders, all of whom are incapable of their office, pass on the entire blame – which they themselves burden their conscience with due to their low intelligentum – to the unvaccinated. The incompetent national leaders who are of this kind even allow experts such as virologists, epidemiologists, doctors and others to misinform and spread anxiety and fright among the peoples by means of lies and misrepresentations in order to, on the one hand, suppress reality and its truth and, on the other hand, to counter their own anxiety. Last but not least, and inevitably, this goes hand in hand with profiteering, with making money, as you have often said in conversations with us. In the process, criminality and felony are also on the increase, with false 'vaccines' in particular being used for 'vaccination', which, on the one hand, are partly consisting of immature and thus untried, as well as partly of pathogenic chemicals, as well as partly only of distilled water or of saline solutions. This felony – and effectively it is such – is still taking place today, as we are observing, only no longer to the same extent as it was at the beginning of the rampantly spreading corona disease.

The criminality resulted and results from the fact that nowadays vaccination certificates are being produced in a very extensive criminal form, which appear so deceptively real that their authenticity can no longer be distinguished from a falsification. The fact that these are being sold at horrendous prices to the willing and render the whole thing of official vaccination certificates nonsensical is not being recognised by the mighty ones of state in their low intelligentum.

The fact that, according to our observations, around 4/5 of the deaths from the rampantly spreading corona disease for a considerable time now are not unvaccinated ones, but persons who have been vaccinated once or repeatedly with the inadequate vaccines, is being presented fallaciously to the contrary. Thus, the truth is being spread among the peoples as a lie in such a form that their willingness to be vaccinated increases, through which many of them will continue to succumb to various adverse health effects and even death.

Irresponsibly, all those of low intelligentum – thus Earth human beings who are not open to true thinking, logic, rationality and intellect – deny logical thinking, decision-making and acting to those who really think more realistically and logically, and insult them as social and solidary enemies by means of all kinds of speeches, comparisons, empty words and nit-picking, and so forth that are of low intelligentum. Thus, the antagonists – mostly persons who are professionally and publicly higher up – invent all sorts of impossible irrational, confused and untenable speeches and contradictions against the unvaccinated, who are capable of thinking further and more clearly than those who submit in blind belief to the false and confused machinations of the mighty ones of state and who will eventually be the ones to suffer harm after all. The machinations of the incapable mighty ones of state, their confused orders and decrees, as well as the rampantly spreading corona disease in all its perilousness of life, promote to a worse extent the whole of the corona disaster. This is the case as the supreme ones, that is to say, the incapable mighty ones of state, also fail completely with regard to their orders as well as to the regulations towards the peoples and thus uphold the pandemic. But for failing completely and doing exactly the opposite of what should be done, ordered and determined, they hold the unvaccinated responsible and declare them to be the culprits, the contrarians and the rowdies of the rampant spreading disease disaster. That is actually what I still wanted to say about the whole thing.

Billy All of this that you are expounding and trying to explain is good and true, but unfortunately it will be of no use to those who think to know everything better and are like-minded, as the imperious rulers themselves, who are unable to really think because they persist in their delusion of 'doing everything right' and remain in their low intelligentum, that is to say, are unable to think in accordance with reality. Unfortunately, there is nothing that can be done about this with those in government, as they are a dead loss, as are their like-minded hangers-on, that is to say, the majority of the peoples, that is to say, the populations in question. They all lack not only real and actual thinking, but also logic, intellect and rationality, for these missing values lead them to not thinking and thus to sheer low intelligentum. Once this prevails, both the thinking and the consciousness are inevitably not being used and so, unfortunately, there is no cure for thinking something useful. Any words are useless, no matter how much is being said, for the majority of the populations are also far too religiously believing in a 'dear god', whereby the majority of the ones of low intelligentum, that is to say, the non-thinking and god-believing populations, also see their rulers as similar to a god. The fact that they do not lick the bad-smelling buttocks of them in public is almost a miracle, which is probably not a reality only because those in government are 'still' wearing trousers in order to cover their excrement ejectors.

It is absolutely necessary to explain what low intelligentum actually is and that it refers to the fact that it is effectively based on non-thinking, which means that all thinking is done quickly, hastily and superficially, and therefore lacks the thoroughness of true and effective thinking. This results in premature decisions and actions, or even to orders and decrees that bring about exactly the opposite of that which would and should be right. Fundamentally, as Sfath taught at that time, there are 2 kinds of psychological principles with regard to thinking; namely the non-thinking and the actual, that is to say, real thinking. Non-thinking is described as 'dull', therefore as 'of low intelligentum', and also as 'inconsiderate' and 'quick-quick', according to the psychological cognition that states that there are 2 different modes of thinking in a human being, namely the FAST and the SLOW. The quick method of thinking thereby is the superficial, inconsiderate, inadequate and as a rule the unworthy and harming form that very quickly brings forth an effectively inconsiderate and unworthy 'decision' that inevitably causes harm. In contrast, the slow method of thinking is such that comprehensively that which is thought acquires a right and pertinent decision in logic of the intellect and of rationality, which can and may be implemented in reality with a clear conscience, because success, progress and thus benefit emerge from it. The method of slow thinking is, for example, that of the real, worthy invention of various things, as well as that of psychologically right aphorisms, but especially the teaching of the really existing of reality and its truth in a comprehensible form, as well as the right and worthy decision-making and the acting upon a matter or a situation arising therefrom, and so forth.

However, with regard to those in government and their hangers-on, the majority of the people, who, under some circumstances, can or may vote for those in government – depending on the given political system – that is another story, which proves that neither those in government nor the majority of the people are capable of taking hold of any real thinking. The majority of the peoples, however, regardless of which countries – this includes all of them, whether it concerns Switzerland, Germany, the EU, that is to say, the European dictatorship, the USA, China or any other nation – are, so to speak, hanging on every word of the might-greedy authorities. The majority of the peoples being of low intelligentum believe their rulers without reserve, simply follow them and inconsiderately do everything that these also inconsiderately order, decree, legally issue, put to a popular vote, or simply command, and so forth. As far as those in government are concerned, they are only of low intelligentum – with very, very few exceptions – who have fallen prey to quick thinking to such an extent that consequently blatant modes of action, wrong decisions as well as wrong actions, wrong orders and wrong decrees are already pre-programmed, namely already at the time when they begin to put their quick thinking into 'operation'. That is why, along with their boundless impudence and excessive imperiousness, they consciencelessly arrogate to themselves the right to determine upon the physical integrity of the female and male citizens, namely by ordering compulsory vaccinations regarding the rampantly spreading corona disease, hence even those persons let themselves be vaccinated who, for logical, intellectual and rational reasons, oppose such a treatment. This is precisely because those who are unwilling to be vaccinated are not quick-thinkers and no government toadies who try to suck up to the stinking buttocks of those incapable ones in government who, as ones of low intelligentum, commit blatant incorrect actions by making wrong decisions, issuing wrong modes of behaviour and wrong directives that bring much more harm than benefit – for many human beings even lifelong health issues and even death.

As for the majority of the peoples – who in their mentality and low intelligentum follow suit to those in government – who really do not think and only, with low intelligentum and simple-mindedly, let anything and everything that should be processed and worked out rightly and thus objectively and consciously, cross their brains only superficially and quickly, without really and truthfully considering it slowly and rightly, this is not only of low intelligentum, but indeed of low intelligentum and simple-minded. Since time immemorial, however, low intelligentum has meant – I remember this from Sfath when he explained all of this to me in the 1940s – that people do not really 'think', but instead do so only superficially. Thus, it is to be understood basically in the sense that the human being does not really think, but only allows that which should be thoroughly considered to cross his/her brain, consequently he/she only lets everything cross his/her gyri of the brain superficially and only quickly, unattentively and fleetingly, without actually perceiving what the crucial point of the whole thing is. In the sense of 'god knows what he is doing, and he will explain everything and work it out for the best' is the motto of the believers in god. That's what I heard just recently at night at about 2 a.m., when I had a believer in god on the phone, who was screaming at me and threatening that I would be 'snuffed' and that she would take care of it. She insulted me, wished death and the devil on me and that I should 'die a miserable death', which was contradictory to what she had threatened me with before, namely that I should be 'snuffed'. However, this is only because I do not believe in her 'dear god', but instead write against him and against her 'holy' religious belief and the 'all-mighty'. Something which she does not have to read, since I do not write it to her, but in general in my writings, therefore she herself is to blame if she rummages around in them and reads something which is not explicitly addressed to her personally.

Truly, on the one hand, this is what I have experienced again and again in my lifetime from religious believers, especially from believers in Christianity, who have persecuted and harassed me since my childhood from my place of citizenship, Bülach out to faraway places of the Earth. Even from attacks on my life I was not spared, but that is exactly what the believing human beings do when their conviction falsely presents them an illusion other than what their belief tells them. This is the belief that is lived by – as is the case with all religious believers of all confessions in general. But as soon as something is contrary to their view, contrary to their conviction, or when they fall prey to a new ideology and thus to a new conviction – which is nothing other than a persuasion, that is to say a 'transcription' to a new belief, which can be either religious, political or otherwise – then that which basically lies in wait as the innermost blazing of the character of the true inner nature, is done, pursued and carried out. However, as a rule, this is nothing other than hatred of every human being who holds a view different from one's own lived conviction. Neither love, nor peace nor humaneness are playing a role, because the hatred, revenge and every Ausartung up to murder, manslaughter, annihilation, destruction and war and so forth, are deemed and wielded as legal means, namely regardless of whether the next human being, the population or the entire people of a nation come to harm as a result. As soon as something is bugging a believer – no matter by what belief the human being in question is being dominated – as soon as another opinion prevails or another conviction or ideology arises that speaks against one's own, then the 'love' and the 'humaneness' and 'friendship' and so forth, towards one's fellow human being are over and done with, gone and forgotten.

The religious as well as the political or any other belief and the corresponding behaviour of a human being of Earth only applies as long as the believer's own opinion is being advocated with all might, however, if this is toppled, then there is an end to the equal rights, to the love for the next one, to peace and to humaneness, and so forth. The truth is ultimately that any religious belief finds its continuation in its inevitable encroachment on daily life and the things and factors of all kinds connected with it, and so forth, so that the human being in general becomes a believer and no longer thinks for himself/herself, or thinks only halfway and illogically. Consequently, the religious belief also extends to and affects politics, each and every view and attitude of the human being and anything and everything concerning his/her view, way of looking at things and mode of behaviour in general. Thus the conviction, that is to say, the persuasion and therefore the belief, gain energy and power in that which the persuasion, that is to say, the 'persistent persuasion', idolises or idealises – such as the belief in godheads, tin gods and human beings – from which the human being can no longer free him/herself and therewith remains caught in the belief and thus in his/her low intelligentum, that is to say, in the not-thinking for himself/herself. As a rule, another person – or several of them – or a propaganda and so forth, plays a determining role in all this, which has a 'convincing', thus a 'persuasive' effect, so that the human being believably falls prey to it and is coerced into a belief in the 'transcribed' cause, ideology and ideality and so forth, and he/she thus falls prey to blatant low intelligentum, that is to say, to no longer thinking for himself/herself and thus to illogicalness, to unintellect and to irrationality. Thus, religious belief is liable for the non-thinking and thus for the low intelligentum of the human being, and indeed also in everyday life, where consistently, in a belief-based fashion, views, decisions and actions are specifically determined by belief. Anything and everything is ultimately determined in this wise by the belief, which the human being has fallen prey to, which he/she accepts, does and carries out based on his/her belief, and in this form everything that happens to human beings of belief occurs.

Recently and over the last few days, however, in addition to such telephone calls, I have received various letters and emails, which, on the one hand, were very pleasant and full of thanks for the FIGU work, while, on the other hand, others expressed grief, sorrow and worries. This was mainly because people listened to the propaganda of those in government and of the segments of the population who are confidently hanging on to them, which advocated vaccination. Consequently, many have let themselves be vaccinated due to their persuasive talk and, as a result, have suffered health-damaging consequences, while other family members have died from it, hence grief afflicted the families.

When now I look at and consider everything, then I remain with all of this not tempting me to give advice myself on the subject of vaccination against the rampantly spreading corona disease. The human beings of Earth alone have to decide for themselves what they want, must or should do, which is why all human beings must give thought to or think about it themselves, make their decisions and act entirely for themselves. On the one hand, I do not want to and cannot give advice to any human being in any respect with regard to getting vaccinated or not with regard to the rampantly spreading corona disease. On the other hand, I want to repeat that in terms of that which each human being should or should not do, that is to say, whether or not they should or want to be vaccinated, is something that all have to think about, decide and act on themselves. This applies equally to what human beings always do or do not do, how they behave in the face of the rampantly spreading disease and the precautionary measures and what they can or cannot allow themselves to do, in order to, first and foremost, protect themselves and thus also their fellow human beings from infection. This requires thinking, deciding and acting in logic, intellect and rationality by oneself, and indeed in any case, so for example, sitting together without a mask and without keeping one's distance with one or the other fellow human being, just as, however, the individual human being must also give thought to the fact that a contagion can still take place even at distances of 300 and 400 cm, if the environmental conditions accord with that. When wearing a suitable respiratory protection mask – which should never be less than the quality of FFP2 – a distance of about 150 to 200 cm to the fellow human being is probably sufficient, but a factor of uncertainty can always be present.

It is in no way done with the saying that the human beings should 'think for themselves and not let themselves think', because fundamentally the human beings must learn – and this is a must – to think for themselves instead of letting others think and decide for them superficially and incorrectly. Each human being alone bears the responsibility for every doing or non-doing.

You, Bermunda, have also mentioned that which Sfath recognised and communicated to me in the 1940s after his research at that time. But that requires some more of an explanation than you have given. It is namely that certain vaccines – which can be both good and bad – depending on the health constitution, that is to say, the general physical condition and thus according to the human being's own given biophysiological and biopsychological characteristics, bring about the effect of the good or bad vaccine. The physical constitution thus forms the contrast to the entirety of the environmental influences on the body, which may already have been acquired during development, in which case genetic influences play no role whatsoever. Through this process, characteristics/features are acquired that cause changeable, shorter-lasting inner characteristics/features with regard to certain external influences that have an exceptionally harmful effect, in which case especially rampantly spreading diseases and illnesses lead to reactions that can, under some circumstances, result in lifelong ailments and suffering and even to death. On the whole, the forms of the bodies are determining, thus the shape; whether normal, obese or of a medium kind of shape and so forth, as are the normal processes of life, that is to say, the physiological-biochemical and psychological processes or characteristics of the individuality of the human being.

Sfath also taught me that one or another human being would actually be largely protected from the disease even if he/she fell victim to an infection with the rampantly spreading disease and could spread further, however, without showing any symptoms of the rampantly spreading disease himself/herself.

Ptaah Something – if I may repeat the words of Bermunda – which was also completely new to us but which led to research being taken up and carried out from our part, which in the course of time confirmed your information and thus also the research findings of my father Sfath, which he compiled at that time, that everything is right, namely that which is the case today, but which is completely unknown to the earthly scientists, because up to now they have harboured no thoughts at all in this direction and therefore did not consider it, because in their narrow-mindedness this fact seems completely absurd to them. (Note: Ptaah repeated Bermunda's explanation precisely.)

Billy What I can give as an advice, I may give within the frame of the perception and the security of my own responsibility, and that refers to this: every human being on Earth, regardless of age and gender, who has or has not been vaccinated against the corona virus, who is clear in his/her senses, capable of logic, intellect, rationality as well as of a comprehensive perception of responsibility, should protect himself/herself against the rampantly spreading corona disease according to his/her own ability and capability. This must take place in such a form that every human being of Earth carefully wears a good respiratory protection mask, which must be of the quality FFP2, when dealing with fellow human beings. This should be in connection with a distance rule to the fellow human being, in which case the distance to the next person should be no less than 150 cm, but in normal cases, as a rule, 200 cm. That is that which I am allowed to say without interfering with the personal rights and the integrity of the body of the human being in any form. How and whether it is being comprehended, followed and done by the individual human being is entirely at his/her own personal discretion. My advice is no more and no less than a well-thought-out advice, which should, in any case, apply equally to both vaccinated and unvaccinated persons.

In addition to what has been said, it should be explicitly stated that the present orders and decrees of those in government to the peoples in the form of the G2 rule and of the G3 rule (In some German speaking countries, there are G-rules: '2G' means that a person has to be 'Geimpft' (= vaccinated) or 'Genesen' (= recovered from Covid), '3G' means a person has to be 'Geimpft', 'Genesen' or 'Getestet' (= negative Covid test) for admittance into restaurants or other venues.) truly correspond to a joke. This is, indeed, if all those who have and have not been vaccinated wear mandatory FFP2 respiratory protection masks and observe the distance rule of 200 cm or under some circumstances 150 cm, as ordered, that is to say, decreed and kept to. If these rules are being adhered to by the peoples, that is to say, by the respective populations of a country, if such rules are being decreed in logic, intellect and rationality, then there is no need for a ridiculous G-rule. This, however, requires that all the individuals of a population in question integrate into a corresponding order and decree in solidarity, which in this form neither harms the personal rights nor the physical integrity, nor the freedom of movement of the person. However, any public unnecessary, such as, for example, any mass event as well as any travel activity that is not necessarily determined by economic factors or is vital and therefore absolutely essential, must be prevented.

For those human beings who have been vaccinated against the corona virus, this vaccination is of little help against infection, as you Plejaren have explained to me some time ago, consequently those who have been vaccinated against it can be just as contagious as those who have not been vaccinated. There are also those in whom the rampantly spreading disease impulses are deposited, which spread through the organs and blood and remain present throughout life, to one day become efficacious and cause some illness which does not in the least indicate a connection with the rampantly spreading corona disease. This fact is still completely unknown to earthly virologists, epidemiologists, researchers, scientists, physicians and other medical practitioners of all fields. Nor do they even have a clue that the virus will never be eradicated anymore, but will continue to exist in an impulse-based state for all time to come, and will one day strike again in a completely altered mutative form, namely even ... However, I am not supposed to say anything about that, because Sfath said about this ... Therefore, I will say nothing more regarding this. The fact remains, however, that the vaccinated can equally spread the rampantly spreading corona disease and thus infect the unvaccinated and those already vaccinated, just as much as they can infect the so-called 'cured' anew with the rampantly spreading disease pathogen. This is also well known by the so-called experts, but they keep quiet about it and suppress the truth from the public, consequently the public is of the opinion that an immunity is brought forth through the development of antibodies due to a vaccination. However, this is an erroneous belief regarding this rampantly spreading disease, which will also evidently turn out to be the case, consequently this is also known to the experts, and silence is also officially kept regarding it and the Earth's humanity is being led down the garden path.

With this, I have actually said everything I wanted to say, and so I don't think I need to say more about everything either, because it should really be sufficient.

Bermunda I suppose that is all that is important, ...
